

Technology and the Educational Workplace

Understanding Fiscal Impacts 1997 AEFA Yearbook

If you're interested in how education and technology can work together to improve relations in the "global village," you'll want to read this book. Here is the latest research on how technology can improve education and help create a worldwide educational environment. Chapter authors discuss various ways in which technology is changing education. They explore exciting new programs for training administrators and teachers how to use, teach, supervise, and get the most from the technology in their schools. You'll gain insights on how to develop the negotiating skills to obtain funds to implement and run your technological programs. Find out how to ensure a technologically-advantaged education for all your students. Learn strategies you can use to overcome technology-resistance from staff, parents, and students.

This volume focuses on the power of technology to improve education and to create global educational environments. The contributors present exciting new programs for training administrators and teachers, and makes clear the possibilities that technology brings to the lives of researchers and policymakers.

69,30 €
69,30 € (zzgl. MwSt.)

Lieferfrist: bis zu 10 Tage

Artikelnummer: 9780803965614
Medium: Buch
ISBN: 978-0-8039-6561-4
Verlag: Corwin
Erscheinungstermin: 31.08.1998
Sprache(n): Englisch
Auflage: 1. Auflage 1998
Serie: Yearbook of the American Education Finance Association
Produktform: Gebunden
Gewicht: 419 g
Seiten: 224
Format (B x H): 145 x 222 mm

