

Dynamical Systems Essentials

An Application Oriented Introduction to Ideas, Concepts, Examples, Methods, and Results

This textbook offers a rigorous yet accessible introduction to the qualitative theory of dynamical systems, focusing on both discrete- and continuous-time systems—those defined by iterated maps and differential equations. With clarity and precision, it provides a conceptual framework and the essential tools needed to describe, analyze, and understand the behavior of real-world systems across the sciences and engineering.

Designed for advanced undergraduates and early graduate students, the book assumes only a foundational background in analysis, linear algebra, and differential equations. It bridges the gap between introductory courses and more advanced treatments by offering a self-contained and balanced approach—one that integrates geometric intuition with analytical rigor.

Key features include:

- A carefully curated selection of topics essential for applied contexts
- Full, detailed proofs of cornerstone results, including the Poincaré-Bendixson theorem, Lyapunov's stability criteria, Grobman-Hartman theorem, Center Manifold theorem
- A unified treatment of discrete- and continuous-time systems, with discrete methods often paving the way for their continuous counterparts
- Employing modern functional analytic techniques to streamline and clarify complex arguments
- Special attention to invariant manifolds, symbolic dynamics, and topological normal forms for codimension-one bifurcations

Whether for students planning further study in pure or applied mathematics, or for those in disciplines such as physics, biology, or engineering seeking to apply dynamical systems theory in practice, this book offers a concise yet comprehensive entry point. Instructors will appreciate its modular structure and completeness, while students will benefit from its clarity, rigor, and insightful presentation.

This textbook offers a rigorous yet accessible introduction to the qualitative theory of dynamical systems, focusing on both discrete- and continuous-time systems—those defined by iterated maps and differential equations. With clarity and precision, it provides a conceptual framework and the essential tools needed to describe, analyze, and understand the behavior of real-world systems across the sciences and engineering. Designed for advanced undergraduates and early graduate students, the book assumes only a foundational background in analysis, linear algebra, and differential equations. It bridges the gap between introductory courses and more advanced treatments by offering a self-contained and balanced approach—one that integrates geometric intuition with analytical rigor. Key features include:- A carefully curated selection of topics essential for applied contexts- Full, detailed proofs of cornerstone results, including the Poincaré-Bendixson theorem, Lyapunov's stability criteria, Grobman-Hartman theorem, Center Manifold theorem- A unified treatment of discrete- and continuous-time systems, with discrete methods often paving the way for their continuous counterparts- Employing modern functional analytic techniques to streamline and clarify complex arguments- Special attention to invariant manifolds, symbolic dynamics, and topological normal forms for codimension-one bifurcations Whether for students planning further study in pure or applied mathematics, or for those in disciplines such as physics, biology, or engineering seeking to apply dynamical systems theory in practice, this book offers a concise yet comprehensive entry point. Instructors will appreciate its modular structure and completeness, while students will benefit from its clarity, rigor, and insightful presentation.

69,54 €

64,99 € (zzgl. MwSt.)

vorbestellbar, Erscheinungstermin ca. Mai 2026

Artikelnummer: 9783032040824

Medium: Buch

ISBN: 978-3-032-04082-4

Verlag: Springer Nature Switzerland AG

Erscheinungstermin: 03.05.2026

Sprache(n): Englisch

Auflage: Erscheinungsjahr 2026

Serie: Texts in Applied Mathematics

Produktform: Gebunden

Seiten: 391

Format (B x H): 155 x 235 mm

