

Intra/Sections

Towards Post-Anthropocentric Concepts of Multiplicity

The global socio-ecological crisis is making it increasingly clear that 'we' do not only act in interpersonal social and political relationships, but that non-human forms of life and relationships must also be taken into account in the critical analysis of our present. In light of that realization, this volume opens the question of the Menge (multitude, crowd) towards a post-anthropocentric perspective on multiplicity. Based on speculative readings of works by K. Barad, M. de la Cadena, and C. Vicuña, the essays illuminate how a human-and-more-than-human intra/sectional approach can help deconstruct the western hegemonic framework in contemporary cultural thinking from a transdisciplinary perspective.

The global socio-ecological crisis is making it increasingly clear that 'we' do not only act in interpersonal social and political relationships, but that non-human forms of life and relationships must also be taken into account in the critical analysis of our present. In light of that realization, this volume opens the question of the Menge (multitude, crowd) towards a post-anthropocentric perspective on multiplicity. Based on speculative readings of works by K. Barad, M. de la Cadena, and C. Vicuña, the essays illuminate how a human-and-more-than-human intra/sectional approach can help deconstruct the western hegemonic framework in contemporary cultural thinking from a transdisciplinary perspective.

69,00 €

64,49 € (zzgl. MwSt.)

sofort versandfertig, Lieferzeit: 1-3 Werktage

Artikelnummer: 9783770567348

Medium: Buch

ISBN: 978-3-7705-6734-8

Verlag: Brill | Fink

Erscheinungstermin: 30.09.2025

Sprache(n): Englisch

Auflage: 2025

Serie: Dispositiv der Menge

Produktform: Kartoniert

Gewicht: 401 g

Seiten: 209

Format (B x H): 155 x 235 mm

