Rewilding - Jessica Lichtenstein at Work

Major coffee-table sized monograph accompanying a year-long exhibtion at New York ‘s Museum of Arts and Design Rewilding: Jessica Lichtenstein at Work presents the artist’s multimedia practice across two decades, spanning wall sculpture, immersive installation, design, video and poetry. Featuring approximately 180 images, the book brings together earlier series alongside new works on the occasion of her year-long exhibition “Rewilding” at the Museum of Arts and Design. The book includes a conversation with veteran culture writer Laura van Straaten examining themes of the body, femininity, and the natural world.
