

Psychogeriatrics

Psychogeriatrics, an official journal of the Japanese Psychogeriatric Society, publishes a wide range of psychogeriatric research from human and animal experimental studies to papers on gerontopsychiatric, neurobiological, genetic, diagnostic, social-psychiatric, and health-policy issues. We offer free format submission, and in addition to original articles, reviews, and case reports, authors can submit to the Psychogeriatric Note category which is beneficial for presenting concise reports.
